SENSEX SHIVERS; AS QUAKE ROCKS JAPAN

-12/03/2011.

EARTHQUAKE, TSUNAMI HITS JAPAN.

A massive earthquake of the magnitude of 8.9 on the Richter scale, hit Japan. This was followed by tsunami on the coastal region of Japan. This was the biggest quake in the last century in Japan and possibly the fifth biggest in history. As a result ports, airports and rail networks were shut down. Besides tremendous loss to human life, there was reportedly some damage to the nuclear facility and a major oil refinery caught fire. As a result, oil fell for the

EDHEC-Risk Institute Warns the European Parliament of the Dangers of Banning Naked Sales of Credit Default Swaps

In an open letter of March 8, 2011 addressed to the Chair of the Economic and Monetary Affairs Committee of the European Parliament, Sharon Bowles, and Pascal Canfin, the Committee's Rapporteur on the draft EU regulation on short selling and credit default swaps, EDHEC-Risk Institute has warned of the dangers of prohibiting "naked" sales of sovereign credit default swaps.

Besides the fact that the lack of convergence on these issues with the US authorities leaves little hope of the measures being effective, EDHEC-Risk Institute thinks that this ban would pose numerous problems and run up against legal and practical obstacles that would make it inapplicable or even counterproductive:

∅ It will be impossible for intermediaries and ultimately for regulators to verify investors' holdings of the securities representative of the risk the credit default swaps are assumed to cover.

∅ This prohibition would make it harder for countries to manage the interest rate risk on their debt actively, as their counterparties would then no longer be able to hedge the country risk of the interest rate swaps they may have entered into. This active management of the yield curve is a major component in the optimisation of the cost of public debt.

∅ More harmful still is that a very strict definition of a naked sale would keep investors who finance public investment or companies that enter into contracts with sovereign nations or with state-owned companies from hedging the default risk of their counterparties. At a time when public-private partnerships and private financing of public infrastructure projects are considered one of the drivers of global growth, making it harder to manage country risk may, at the very least, increase the costs of these partnerships and this financing and, at worst, prove a major hurdle to their development.

∅ Finally, by making the market for hedging default risk more complex, the markets may be deprived of the debt of countries with low ratings, of investors, and thus of liquidity, which will inevitably increase the cost of this debt.

A copy of the open letter can be found here:

Short-term trend in the Sensex is ambivalent. The index is yet to breach the key short-term support at Rs 17,952. Reversal above this zone can pull the index to 18,735 or 18,846. The presence of the 200-DMA at the second target would ensure that the index finds it a tough struggle to get past it. Subsequent target is 19,200. Breach of the 17,952 support on the

If the index bounces from current level, it can move on to 5,600 and then to 5,670 where the 200-DMA is positioned. The strong resistance in the zone between 5,600 and 5,700 can prove to be hard to surpass just yet. But if the index remain in downtrend in all time-frames i.e. short term, medium term and long term.

TECHNICALLY SPEAKING.

The Sensex opened the week at 18361, made a high of 18583, a low of 18058 and closed the week at 18174. The Sensex lost 312 points on a weekly basis. Similarly Nifty opened the week at 5490, made a high of 5563, a low of 5408 and closed the week at 5445. The Nifty too closed with a loss of 93 points on a weekly as Three Black Crows as the bodies are small. On the weekly charts, a Bearish Harami pattern has been formed on both the indices. This is a bearish reversal pattern after a Tasuki line formation, which was observed last week.

The market is flirting with the short term trend as it once again closed below the 20dma (Sensex - 18217 and Nifty - 5455) after giving a buy signal just a week before. As a result the short term trend has week was a bearish crossover of the 50dma and 200dma. This is not a good omen from the long term point of view, as invariably the market has dropped substantially. This is the only the second time in the last six years that this bearish crossover of 50dma and 200dma has been observed. Last time, it was in March 2008 and market participants are well aware of the danger and remember how much damage it inflicted the last time around.

attempt at crossing this Resistance zone. The Resistance zone for the Sensex (18559-18582) is created by 38.2% of the medium term fall from 20664 to 17295 and 61.8% of the shorter term fall from 19340 to 17295 for the Sensex. For Nifty the Resistance zone (5561-5563) is created by 38.2% of the medium term fall from 6181 to 5177 and 61.8% of the shorter term fall from 5801 to 5177. Thus for any uptrend to resume, it is imperative that the market closes above the resistance zone.

If the recent fall continues, then we have to consider the correction of the recent rise from 17295-18736 for the Sensex and 5177-5608 for the Nifty. The correction levels are placed at 18185-18015-17845 for the Sensex and 5443-5392-5342 for the Nifty. In case the lower level of 17845 for the Sensex and 5342 for the Nifty is breached, then the market might test its recent bottoms at Sensex 17295 and Nifty 5177. In Bear markets, the bottoms are normally breached and if that happens then we have to find lower be 18094-17163-16233 for the Sensex and 5414-5128-4842 for the Nifty. If we consider the entire rise from 7697 to 21108 for the Sensex and 2252 to 6338 for the Nifty, then the correction levels for the Sensex

Astrology & Stock market

& volatility will continue. Keep booking profits, without waiting for targets.

It is our firm belief & conviction based on experience of over 40 years in stock market that every thing in this universe including the movement of stock market is governed by heavenly planets in the zodiac. Excellent Budget presented by Hon'ble Finance Minister last week also could not change the market trend.

Planetary position suggests that disturbing news flow will continue.

New Samvat 2068 (Hindu New Year) will be starting from 4th

April 2011. Whenever New Samvat starts, based on planetary position / conjunction & aspect among planets, some new sectors commence out performing & many sectors, which were in momentum during last Samvat start under performing.

It has been observed many times that investors / traders (not knowing this fact) keep investing / trading in such sectors, (whose astrological support is over) – resulting in losses. It is suggested to consult your Financial Astrologer to know about the sectors.

From next week, Oil & Gas sector would be receiving strong Astrological support. Stocks from this sector – Oil India, Gail, Indian Oil, Ongc & Bpcl etc can be accumulated on dips Banking / Financial sector too would be getting Astrological support. Accumulate Pnb, Sbi, Obc, Canara & Bob ect from banking & Hdfc, Idfc, Ifci, Lic Hsg etc from financials on dips.

As predicted last week selected Pharma stocks will continue to move up but book profit & exit from this sector by 16th March 11.

Sectors which get strong ASTRO support are not normally affected by downfall in the market.

Market preview

manages that feat, next target is 5,716.

We stay with the view that the medium-term view stays under a cloud as long as the index trades below 5,621. Unless the index manages a strong move beyond this level, there will remain open the possibility of decline to 5,165, 4,970 and 4,891.

Retracement targets of the upmove from March 2009 low for Nifty are 5,198, 5,084 and 4,886.

Global Cues

Global equities underwent a turbulent time last week with many benchmarks recording steep declines. European indices such as the FTSE, CAC and DAX closed over 3 per cent lower extending the downtrend that is in place over the past month. The VIX spiked to 22.2 on Thursday before closing at 20 implying that investors are getting a trifle jittery.

The Dow recorded the low of 11,936 on Friday but ended the week above the 12,000 level. As explained before, a close below 11,800 is required to make the short-term view negative. The medium-term uptrend will be under threat only if the index closes below 11,258; that is the peak formed on April 2010.

Many of the agri-commodities such as cocoa, wheat, corn, bean-oil and so on recorded sharp declines last week ending a multi-week uptrend that has taken them to record highs. Gold recorded the peak of $1,444 before ending at $1,417. Short-term supports for the precious metal are at $1,396 and $1,364. If the metal holds above the first support, it will indicate a propensity to head higher in the upcoming sessions.

NYMEX Light crude futures are closed the week in the negative after attempting to get past the resistance at $105. The movement next week should help us understand if this is a serious reversal or just a mild consolidation.

the terrorist broke into the house around 1 am armed with a knife and stabbed the mother, father, a three-month old baby and children ages 11 and three. The victims were apparently sleeping.

Three of the family's children, age two, six and 12, are still alive.

The terrorist succeeded in fleeing the settlement. Israel police and Israel Defense Forces are searching the area.

"An entire family was killed by despicable and cowardly murderers who murdered children and parents for no reason," Israel Defense Forces GOC Central Command Maj. Gen. Avi Mizrahi said from the scene.

Iran-backed Hamas' TV and official website

Israeli emergency service, Magen David Adom, spokesman Zaki Heller is quoted by Israeli news outlet as saying "When rescue forces entered the house they encountered a very difficult sight. There were five people there...we could do nothing but pronounce them dead," he said, according to Israel's YNet news site.

The same outlet quotes paramedic Kabaha Muayua as stating, "We could not help the first four stab victims. Following an inspection of the scene I spotted an infant of about three who still had a pulse. We engaged in lengthy resuscitation efforts but had to pronounce him dead," he said.

"The murder scene was shocking. Kids' toys right next to pools of blood," he added.

"Israel will not stand by idly after such a despicable murder such as this and will act vigorously to safeguard the lives of the citizens of Israel and punish the murderers," Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu said in a statement.

U.S sends coolant for Fukushima nuclear plant

United States has reportedly sent coolant to Japan after power failure at the nuclear plant wherein the cooling systems have failed.

Japan yesterday. According to reports, the cooling systems of several reactors failed, causing pressure to rise within the facilities. The Authorities said they may release small amounts of radioactive steam from the plants to ease the pressure build-up.

Japan after power failure at the nuclear plant wherein the cooling systems have failed.

The Fukushima No.1 and No.2 plants, with 10 reactors between them, were both damaged by the earthquake and there are reports of another exposed and overheating reactor core in the No.2 plant, said a financial daily.

The United States has reportedly sent coolant to

Japan fights nuclear disaster; quake may have killed 10,000

Japan was fighting to contain what could be the world's worst nuclear disaster in 25 years after the cooling failed at a second reactor crippled by a quake which may have killed over 10,000.

Strong aftershocks continued to shake Japan's main island as the desperate search pressed on for survivors from Friday's massive earthquake and tsunami.

State broadcaster NHK said more than 10,000 people may have been killed as the wall of water hit, reducing whole towns to rubble.

Thousands were evacuated on Saturday following an explosion and leak from the facility's No. 1 reactor in Fukushima, 240 km (150 miles) north of Tokyo, where there is believed to have been a partial meltdown of the fuel rods.

Engineers were pumping in seawater, trying to prevent the same thing from happening at the No. 3 reactor, the government said in a p p a r e n t acknowledgement that it had moved too slowly on Saturday.

"Unlike the No.1 reactor, we ventilated and injected water at an early stage," Chief Cabinet Secretary Yukio Edano told a news briefing.

Asked if fuel rods were partially melting in the No. 1 reactor, Edano said: "There is that possibility. We cannot confirm this because it is in the reactor. But we are dealing with it under that assumption ." He said fuel rods may have partially deformed at the No. 3 reactor but a meltdown was unlikely to have occurred.

Nuclear plant operator Tokyo Electric Power (TEPCO) said radiation levels around the Fukushima Daiichi plant had risen above the safety limit but that it did not mean an "immediate threat" to human health.

Edano said there was a risk of an explosion at the building housing the No. 3 reactor, but that it was unlikely to affect the reactor core container.

The government said it planned electricity blackouts in areas covered by TEPCO lasting a few weeks.

The disaster prompted an angry response from an anti-nuclear energy NGO in Japan which said it should have been foreseen.

"A nuclear disaster which the promoters of nuclear power in Japan said wouldn't happen is in progress," the Citizens' Nuclear Information Centre said. "It is occurring as a result of an earthquake that they said would not happen."

Thousands spent another freezing night huddled in blankets over heaters in emergency shelters along the northeastern coast, a scene of devastation after the 8.9 magnitude quake sent a 10-metre (33-foot) wave surging through towns and cities in the Miyagi region, including its main coastal city of Sendai.

In one of the heavily hit areas, Rikuzentakata, a city close to the coast, more than 1,000 people took refuge in a school high on a hill. Some were talking with friends and family around a stove. The radio was giving updates. On the walls were posters where the names of survivors at the shelter were listed.

Some were standing in front of the lists, weeping.

Kyodo news agency, which said the number of dead or unaccounted was expected to exceed 2,000, reported that there had been no contact with around 10,000 people in one town, more than half its population.

A Japanese official said there were 190 people within a 10-km radius of the nuclear plant when radiation levels rose and 22 people have been confirmed to have s u f f e r e d contamination. Workers in protective clothing were scanning people arriving at evacuation centres for radioactive exposure.

The crisis has triggered anti-nuclear power protests in Europe. Up to 60,000 protesters formed a 45-km (27-mile) human chain in Germany to denounce the government's policy of extending the life of nuclear plants.

Officials in Japan ordered the evacuation of a 20-km (12-mile) radius zone around the plant and 10 km (6 miles) around another nuclear facility close by.

Around 140,000 people had left the area, while authorities prepared to distribute iodine to protect people from radioactive exposure.

"There is radiation leaking out, and since the possibility (of being exposed) is high, it's quite scary," said Masanori Ono, 17, standing in line on Saturday to be scanned for radiation at an evacuation centre in Fukushima prefecture.

The wind over the plant would continue blowing from the south, which could affect residents north of the facility, an official at Japan's Meteorological Agency said.

"The use of seawater means they have run out of options. If they had any other water they would have used it. It likely means the power for their pumps is gone," said David Lochbaum, director of the Union of Concerned Scientists Nuclear Safety Project
